The Colliton Club is a registered private company limited by guarantee. It is a private members club but is open to everyone and has been in existence for more than 60 years. Applications for membership are always welcome.

Formed in 1950, the Club was established by staff working with the county council to provide canteen and social facilities. It is self-financing, and leases the property from Dorset Council. It has been awarded 5 stars for health and hygiene by West Dorset District Council, and provides breakfast, lunches and evening meals, as well as Sunday Lunch on the first Sunday of each month. We aim to use locally sourced food wherever possible.

There are 2 bars providing a selection of coffees, tea, non-alcoholic and alcoholic drinks. You can book the club for weddings, private parties and meetings.

The Colliton Club occupies part of Colliton House, a mainly 17th Century Grade II listed building, containing some fine 16th century panelling and an 18th century staircase. It was formally the town house of the Churchill family and above the external porch is a cartouche containing the Churchill family arms.

The site is believed to be the location of the medieval hospital of St John The Baptist, fragments of which are in the County Museum.

Colliton House also featured in Thomas Hardy's 'Mayor of Casterbridge', as High-Place Hall, the home of Lucetta Templeman.

It also saw service as a VAD hospital in the Great War, with patients accommodated in marquees set up in Colliton Park.
